

Represented State Bar of Michigan in Federal Court

Represented State Bar of Michigan in federal court against constitutional challenges to character and fitness review process, resulting in published appellate decision holding that Michigan's process for determining qualifications of attorneys is constitutional and that members of character and fitness committees are immune from suit.

AUTHORS/ CONTRIBUTORS

Richard C. Kraus

PRACTICE AREAS

Appellate Practice

General Litigation
